DOING THEIR DUTY

Scores of Yuma Readers are Learning the Duty of the Kidneys.

To filter the blood is the kidneys' duty.

When they fail to do this the kidneys are weak.

Backache and other kidney ills may follow.

Help the kidneys do their work.

Use Doan's Kidney Pills—the tested kidney remedy.

Proof of their worth in the following:

J. Davies, miner, School Hill, Ariz., says: "I used Doan's Kidney Pills several years ago when I suffered from pains in my back. They acted quickly and positively. Since then I have taken them for annoyances caused by weak kidneys and bladder and they have never failed to help me."

Price 50c at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Davies had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

THE WAR A MOST RIDICULOUS THING

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—The "big push" which the British and French have at last attempted along the northern portion of the German line has been viewed by at least some of the officers in the British trenches as likely to entail a sacrifice of life "that no general will be prepared to face," according to a captain whose letter from the British front, written just before the big forward movement began, gives some interesting light on the present psychology of the men in the trenches.

Ralph L. Shaniwald, a New York manufacturer, makes public the letter, without disclosing the identity of the captain who wrote it.

"We talked of a 'big push' when I was in London," says the officer. "It may be attempted, and I may be in it but the sacrifice of life will be something that in my humble opinion, no general will be prepared to face. Only those who have had some experience of trench warfare can appreciate the stupendous difficulties of a great forward movement, with its attendant wholesale slaughter of the very blood that England requires most. No; in my opinion, valueless though it be, our policy must be one of attrition—of wearing out the enemy—a policy that I fully recognize, however, may mean the bankruptcy of the civilized world. Verdun is doubtless the last great effort of a desperate and wonderfully organized military nation, but its failure in that quarter will not render the task of overthrowing its well-handled masses of troops very much easier, under trench circumstances."

In other parts of his letter, the British captain frankly discloses what he thinks of war:

"Between you and me," he says, "war is the most damnable, stupid, non-sensical thing that was ever invented for settling disputes, and is carried on by brainless, well-meaning men, that you wouldn't give the office boy's job to. Incompetence, inefficiency, and pluck; effrontery, interference and red tape and ability, are all mixed up together out here, in a manner that would drive a business man like you crazy."

"I have no intention of wearying you with the tales of 'hurting' shells, and the deafening roar of cannon, making your blood run cold with the stories of the sights that disgust you, and yet fill you with deep sympathy; of shocks and hairbreadth escapes; of tales of valor, and of trembling knees; of the brave British officer shaving under shell fire (although I have done that stunt many a morning, without cutting myself); of shots that pierced the tunic to be deflected finally by the small Bible presented by the blue and brown eyed maiden of Bloomsbury Square; of the bullying officer being saved by the fresh-faced youngster fulfilling a 'noble revenge.'"
